CANADIAN RINGS OF THE WEEK

Used by the royal family, it is a diamond-encrusted pavé design, but the band features two rows of baguette-cut diamonds. The design is a mix of styles, and the ring is set with a mix of baguette-cut diamonds. The ring is set with a mix of baguette-cut diamonds. The ring is set with a mix of baguette-cut diamonds.

BEST DRESSED GUEST • A BLUR OF SPRING FLORALS

A year after it won the inaugural British Fashion Council/Vogue Fashion Fund award, Erdem Moralioglu's eponymous label remains the toast of London, of first ladies (Michelle Obama, Samantha Cameron) and of red carpet pixies such as Carey Mulligan and Ginnifer Goodwin. Season after season, the Canadian designer's artfully blurry, digitally manipulated signature floral prints have been among the most influential on the runways, setting the tone for many a warm-weather wedding and garden party. These fresh-cut spring dresses are just two examples of those taking inspiration from the wunderkind designer. At Banana Republic, it's a watercolour floral satin shift with a tie waist (pictured at left, $160, at their stores and bananarepublic.ca). From Canadian apparel brand Cartise, it's a more fluid lily print in sleeveless (but fully lined!) rayon, $245 at their boutiques in Quebec, Peppertree in Markham, BJ's Fashions in Vancouver, Sonia's Runway in Edmonton, Klassie and Bonnie's in Saskatchewan and Cassiopeia and Investment Piece in Winnipeg (cartise.com). Just be mindful not to upstage the bride! Weekend Post
